All parents send their kids to the “Academy” when they turn 6, and they must live there til they turn 18. The Academy has very strict rules, keeping girls and boys separated, and only allowing for visitors once a year. Class 28 is the first class to test the limits of the rules. Students speculate and begin to question the academy’s motive and purpose as to why the school operates in such abnormal ways. After learning about the school’s truth, 3 kids create an elaborate plan to escape. Will they make it out successfully? Or will they get stuck in the Academy and sent to “punishment”?

Warning: Mild Violence. Flashing lights.

CONCORD ACADEMY PERFORMING ARTS PRESENTS:

Writer's Block is a fast-paced, laugh-out-loud comedy where teenage writer Katherine tries to finish her school project, but her over-imaginative friends Bella and Matteo have other plans. What begins as a simple fairytale quickly spirals into a chaotic mash-up of princesses, wizards, Shakespearean bards, pop stars, monks, and even lightsaber-wielding nuns. As their creative "collaboration" spins out of control and fantasy collides with reality, the trio discovers that friendship, teamwork, and a little imagination might just be the best kind of magic.

DRIFT NO MORE

Drift No More follows Joren Tidewell, a brilliant but tightly wound royal mapmaker tasked with charting the uncharted waters at the edge of the known world—the very place where his father vanished chasing a sea-bound fable. Reluctantly boarding The Kraken's Keep, a pirate ship of eccentric outcasts led by the charismatic Captain Elias Stormbreaker, Joren finds himself surrounded by crewmates who thrive on superstition, danger, and storytelling. As they stop for supplies on an island from Joren's painful past, old wounds reopen when he reunites with Mira, the love he left behind, and Thatch, the childhood friend turned bitter rival.

Forced into confrontation—with his past, his fears, and the sea's mythical unknown—Joren must decide whether to keep clinging to control or surrender to something far less certain: faith in others, and in the stories that shape us. Blending humor, heart, swashbuckling adventure, and emotional depth, Drift No More is a coming-of-age voyage about letting go of fear and learning to navigate life's many unknowns.

The Night Witches, a name given to them by the Germans they bombed, were formed in 1941 after Marina Raskova petitioned Joseph Stalin for the creation of a female air force regiment. They were given 1920s' canvas bi-planes, cast off uniforms, boots, and limited supplies. In spite of all of these setbacks they accumulated 23,672 sorties (single combat missions) over the course of the war, dropping over 26,000 bombs on the Germans in the middle of the night. After the war, they went back to their old lives and their efforts were pushed to the back of the shelf. In the 1980's Svetlana Alexievich published her book "the Unwomanly Face of War", which brought their story back into the eyes of the world. These women are remembered today as a testament to resilience, courage, and innovation. We hope you enjoy their story.

Trigger Warnings: Flashing lights, fake bombs and guns, gun fire and explosions, depictions of war and death

ART RESTART PODCAST

Episodes at uncsa.edu/ArtRestart and on your podcast app.

Exploring how creatives are reinventing their fields and building a new landscape for the arts. Featured interviews include:

Dancing in All Senses: Davian Robinson

Dancer and choreographer Davian Robinson reflects on how he developed his methodology as a dance student, the breakthroughs that shaped his teaching, and how dance can make itself more welcoming to visually impaired dancers and audiences alike.

Immersive Theater Wins 21st-Century Fans: Graham Wetterhahn

Artistic Director Graham Wetterhahn shares why he believes After Hours Theatre Company's immersive experiences turns casual eventgoers into passionate theater fans and holds the key to live theater's future.

The Art Restart podcast is hosted by Pier Carlo Talenti and is produced by the Thomas S. Kenan Institute for the Arts.
